The performers from out of town, as well as delegates from the different musical societies of the state were entertained by the members of the Matinee Musical and their friends. Many of the hostesses gave afternoon teas, dinners and receptions to the out of town ladies, which are recorded elsewhere. The society will miss Mrs. Campbell very much. In a social, literary and musical way Mrs. Campbell fills an important place here. Her unusual voice will receive in London the culture which will develop it. Mrs. Lambertson, who goes at the same time, will travel on the continent. She will be joined late in the summer by Mr. Lambertson and they will not return till late in the fall.

On Friday evening, April 13, the Nebraska Beta chapter celebrated by a dancing party at Lansing Hall. The decorations were in the university and fraternity colors. The scarlet and cream of the university formed the decorations of the first room in soft draperies and dainty gas shades. In the second room were hangings of wine and blue, the fraternity colors, while wine and blue shades lent a pretty subdued light. At the end of this room, surrounded by palms, stood the table where the ice was served, above which in smilax and carnations, were the dates '67 and '97.
