Social and Personal

Mr. and Mrs. Buckstaff were really and truly surprised on Wednesday evening of this week. The members of the Cotillon club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hargreaves, corner F and Seventeenth streets. When they were all assembled, they proceeded to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rodgers on F and Twentieth streets, where Mr. and Mrs. Buckstaff were spending the evening. As the company of her special friends trooped in, evidently excited by the suppression of some secret, Mrs. Buckstaff arose and, with some asperity, said they seemed to have arranged for a very nice party at which the Buckstaffs were not expected, upon which, with characteristic decision, she reached for her bonnet. It was with much difficulty that she was persuaded to stay for the first number, which was a most graceful speech from Mr. Lew Marshall, presenting Mr. and Mrs. Buckstaff with a handsome Hungarian vase and a beautiful picture. The revolution of feeling was almost too much for the hostess of the Cotillon club. Fortunately the speech was long enough for her to recover. It was a most happy effort into which Lew, realizing the probable delicacy of the situation, had put much thought. Afterwards Mrs. P. V. M. Raymond played, Mrs. Lippincott and Mr. Zeiss sang. The members of the club are Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hargreaves, Carl Funke, W. B. Ogden, Rodgers, Buckstaff, Guilfoyle, Beeson, C. L. Burr, L. Marshall, F. Houtz, F. Smith, Mohrenstecher, Geo. Woods, J. Dorgan, F. Brown, W. C. Wilson, Wright, C. S. Lippincott, Ladd.

Miss Welch will give this morning at 11 o'clock a pink breakfast to Miss Sewel, her bridesmaids and maid of honor. The ladies of the Altar guild of the Episcopal church have in charge the decorations for the rector's wedding on Tuesday. Mrs. J. T. MacDonald is planning and directing the decorations, and it goes without saying that they will be distinguished by exquisite taste. Miss Hollowbush entertained the Bucyrus Mandolin club on Monday night. One of the members said: "We had more fun."

Miss Parker will during the remainder of this month take orders for portraits at one-third less than regular prices. The capitol school grounds presented a very attractive appearance Wednesday evening. The pupils were all in holiday attire and judging from the way they entered into the games they were a lot of happy children. They were the invited guests of the teachers who furnished refreshments of lemonade and cake. These treats are becoming an annual feature of the school year and serve to increase the pleasant feeling between pupils and teachers.

The meeting of the city federation of womens clubs has been postponed on account of the funeral of Mrs. Fred Shepherd and her mother Mrs. Curtiss. It will be held Monday at 3 p. m. in the woman's club rooms, corner Twelfth and M. streets. Friends will please extend this notice. The public library and reading room were closed during the funeral services of Mrs. Harriet Curtiss Shepherd on Thursday afternoon.

The former editor of The Courier, Mr. W. Merton Smith, is editing the financial or Wall street department of the New York Mail and Express. He has a separate office on "the street." The Mail and Express is pre eminently a financial, business paper and this department is of first importance. Mr. Smith's friends in Lincoln are not surprised that the management of the New York Mail and Express appreciates Mr. Smith's ability, but they are much pleased that their judgment should be so emphatically confirmed. The surprisingly few people who are left over from the early '70's regret to hear of the death of Mrs. D. G. Hull at Burlank, Cal., at the age of forty-seven. Mrs. Hull was well known in Lincoln twenty years ago. She had many friends and contributed to the gaiety and sociality of the place generously. Mrs. Fred Shepherd, who died on Monday afternoon, was a woman of such exceeding sweetness and gentleness that the ordinary newspaper expressions of love and appreciation are cheap and unworthy of the character they attempt to recall. As librarian of the city library for several years she made friends of the hundreds who came within sight of her face and within hearing of the all-womanly voice. She demonstrated an ability to organize and administer affairs in some confusion before the assumption of the position. Her death was followed by that of her mother, Mrs. Curtiss, on Wednesday morning from pneumonia, the same disease which deprived Mrs. Shepherd of her life. Mother and daughter were very sympathetic in life. Mrs. Curtiss leaves a husband and daughter. Mrs. Shepherd's young daughter and husband are bereaved of a personality tender and true. Only those who knew Mrs. Shepherd can realize what a loss befell the baby daughter on Monday, May 10th. The funeral of Mrs. Shepherd and her mother Miss Curtiss was held on Thursday afternoon at the First Congregational church, the pastor officiating.

Mrs. Sarah A. Rogers, who died Sunday evening, May 9, at 9:30 o'clock, was born in Canton, Stark county, Ohio, in which city she spent her youth and acquired her education. She was a graduate of the Canton female seminary. Her father, George Hipp, was for many years engaged in the mercantile business in Canton. After graduation she took charge of the mathematical department of the Lutherville seminary situated in the suburb of Baltimore. Some years later she was married to James Rogers, and early in the '70s they removed to the then young and flourishing city of Lincoln where Mr. Rogers made extensive investments. She has since resided in this city. While devoted to her home and children, she showed marked ability in the management of her husband's estate after his decease, and was beloved and respected by all who knew her brilliant intellect and upright and Christian character. The children, George H.; Isabella, and Anna are left to mourn her loss. The funeral took place from the family residence, No. 937 L street, Wednesday afternoon.

The coming wedding of Rev. Percy Silver and Miss Agnes Sewell, both of Lincoln, is the most important event of the coming week. The wedding is to take place at 7 o'clock in Holy Trinity church Tuesday evening. Miss Sewell is a very attractive brunette and her many friends wish her the greatest joy. She attended the university and was numbered one of the most popular young ladies there. The Lincoln society promises to be very
