Social and Personal

A quiet though beautiful wedding occurred Wednesday, 12 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Buckstaff when their only daughter—Miss Clara Corrine was married to Dr. Robert Henry Wolcott of the state university.

On account of recent family bereavement only relatives and a few immediate friends of the family were present. All the elaborate plans for a church wedding with bridesmaids and ushers were changed. Frank Buckstaff, the bride's brother, was best man. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Turner in the drawing room, where a canopy and dainty chancel rail had been formed of smilax and scarlet and cream roses before the mantel. The whole was crowned with feathery ferns. Falling from this was a lace work of smilax intermingled with red and white carnations. The fireplace was banked high with graceful ferns. Peeping from the green leaves were huge bowls of American beauty roses and white jasmines. The posts supporting the rails were covered with cream roses and had bunches of red roses tied at the top and base. Beneath upon a platform covered with an oriental rug was a white satin pillow.

Miss Whedon was present and at the last moment it was decided that a bridesmaid and a best man would add to the happiness of the occasion so Miss Whedon and the bride's brother consented to do their best for the position. The wedding march was played by Miss Rice, the organist. The bride was charming in a gown of mixed olive green covert cloth, trimmed in green and gold braid; hat to match. She carried American Beauty roses.

Pink carnations decorated the hall and in the dining room where an elaborate wedding breakfast was served after the ceremony. La France roses were used to great advantage on the table, sideboard and mantel. Every chandelier was wound in smilax. In the reception room American Beauty roses lent their fragrance and glory, carelessly placed among the handsome wedding gifts which entirely filled the room.

Dr. Wolcott, the groom, came to Lincoln three years ago to accept his present position of instructor in zoology at the state university. He is a very brilliant man and is a graduate from the medical, scientific and literary departments of Ann Arbor.

The bride, who has grown up and been educated in Lincoln, is a lovely young woman who, with her husband, has a host of friends in society and university circles who wish them every happiness.

Dr. and Mrs. Wolcott left for Chicago at 2:15 Wednesday. They expect to spend the summer there and in Wisconsin, returning in the fall before the university opens.

The papers announced last week that Miss Clara Walsh was awarded the second Charles Toppan prize of $100 for her picture entitled "Light." She and a few other artists in the class will spend the summer with Mr. Chase in the Shinnecock hills, Long Island, resting and sketching.

Mr. Bryan has gone to Indianapolis to deliver an address before Camp Gray. John Dixon's welcome, on his intermittent trips from Nebraska City, is always hearty. When he attended the university he took pains to identify himself with the young people of the place. So that when he comes back, although the personnel of the classes is changed the daughters of the townspeople are in statu quo and that is sufficient. The last trip was ostensibly to attend the reception of the law students at the chancellor's on Monday night, and to see the ball game, where he was said to have howled like old times.

Mrs. Charles McArthur went to Chicago on Monday to visit friends.

Dr. Coe has been in Omaha attending the meeting of the medical association.

Miss Mariel Gere has returned from her year's school teaching in Falls City high school. Mrs. Gere has passed the last days of the school year with Miss Gere who is glad to get home again though her experience has been pleasant and profitable.

The commencement concert of the Nebraska Wesleyan conservatory of music will be given on Monday evening at St. Paul's church.

Miss Maude Oakley leaves today for New York, where she will join Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dorgan. They will sail from New York soon for a trip across the water. Miss Oakley will settle down in London. She will lodge in the same house with Mrs. Lamberton, Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Dawson of Plattsmouth, who is there in charge of her two grand children, the young Dovey girls who are well known to Lincoln people. Miss Oakley will be followed by the best wishes of her many friends in Nebraska. She is going with a grim purpose to do her best. She has natural gifts of person, mind and throat, that, with the will with which she has seized hold of her future, may bend it to her hope. The fond wishes which accompany this very pretty girl across the water will cheer and aid her. With the Dorgans, Clarks, Mrs. Lamberton, Mrs. Campbell, the Silvers and Miss Oakley in London the queen will not feel that Lincoln, Nebraska, has snubbed her jubilee.

The Delta Gamma young ladies gave a coaching party to Ensign's farm last Monday evening. As soon as the tallyho arrived the lunch was set out and enjoyed as only the first picnic party of the season can enjoy a basket lunch. Afterward they danced on the smooth floor of the little banquet hall at the farm. The following were the hostesses and guests: Misses Blanche Hargreaves, Emma Outcalt, Helen Woods, Helen Welch, Nelia Cochrane, Clara Watkins, Blanche Garten, Alice Slaughter, Ura Kelly, May Prenties, Edna Polk, Jessie Lansing, Mabel Ricketts, Annie Mills, Georgie Camp, Georgie Case, Joy Webster, Selma Noren, Clara Parke, Alice Righter, Mrs. W. G. Taylor; Messrs. Shedd, Bartlett, Thacher, Watkins, Corby, Harman, Bescher, Manley, Welch, Stebbins Wilson, Wiggenshorn, Ricketts, Moore, Rowe, Sawyer, Barber, Sumner, McCreary, White, Norton.

Mary Gladys, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Thayer, died at Beatrice on Tuesday evening, June 1, of pneumonia, which developed after measles. The grandparents in this city, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Mullon and General Jno. M. Thayer, are well known and they receive the sympathy of the community. Gladys was six years old, and a beautiful child. When her aunt, Nellie Mullon, was married, Gladys and her cousin, Gilbert White, were the pages who preceded the bridal party. Gladys was in
