Florence Farwell entertained Miss McCune of Omaha, and Miss Miller with several others, on Tuesday evening.

Monday night, Mrs. Frank Smith gave a party for Miss Grace Harrison, of Beatrice. The evening passed merrily, as all of the crowd blacked up as minstrels.

W. E. Hardy and wife will spend a month at Lake Osakis.

Miss Kate Gelateley of Fairbury, has been the guest of her cousin Miss Whiting, for several days.

Mrs. C. O. Whedon and family, expect to spend two weeks this summer camping in the Big Horn Mountains.

Ed T. Child, editor of the Fairmont Tribune, a bright and vigorous state paper, was in the city the first of the week visiting friends.

Will H. Schuyler and Reed Dunroy went to Crete on a fishing excursion last Wednesday. They got some bites, that is, mosquito bites and caught—cold.

Mrs. George D. Kelly has returned from a short summer outing in Kansas C. M. Barr who graduated from the state university a year ago and has since been teaching at Litchfield, this state, is in the city visiting friends.

Miss Alice Rodgers, 1915 F. street gave a birthday party on Wednesday. The little maiden is nine years old and about thirty five of her friends assembled to congratulate her and speed her along the way. The grounds were illuminated and the pretty little lads and lasses had their tea on the lawn lighted by the yellow and red grotesque lanterns of the Chinese. Those present were: John, Casey and Lottie Hamilton, Ethel Burket, Edith Doty, Marie Talbot, Ethel, Vela and Jean Bignell, Laura Leavitt, Earl Foster, Lawrence Tipling, Riley Halstead, Barton and Grace Green, Silence Stewart, Emily Johnson, Charlie Sawyer, Fred Richter, Harry Hargreave, Vincent Coates, Arthur Temple, Grace Stewart, Grace White, Marian Ogden, Florence and Chester Parks, Wells and Henry Lippincott, Frank and Howard Brown, Fannie, Harry and Carl Giffen.

Mrs. Boyd and Miss Boyd from Baltimore visited Mrs. Israel Putman for a few days of this hot week. They are on their way to California.

Last Wednesday Miss Mariel Jones celebrated her birthday with four or five of her little friends who live in the same block with her.

In all cases where weddings are reported in these columns it is understood that the bride is of rare beauty, with many friends and with accomplishments that would land her the other side of fame if she had not preferred matrimony; that the groom is a young business man with a dazzling future which has already attached itself to him like the halo manifestations around the heads of calendered saints. THE COURIER leaves to the daily papers the reiter-ations, of beauty and genius united by the solemn ring service in the tender tones which it is traditional for the profession to employ in Lincoln. THE COURIER is a weekly paper and only attempts to summarize and comment on the events of the week. The rising young business men and the beautiful maidens who are united by impressive ceremonies and officiating clergymen will understand that only the nuptial ceremonies of the wisest, best and most beautiful appear in the columns of THE COURIER. The same office rule applies to refreshments. They will not be mentioned in THE COURIER unless some Bellsbazzar strips the orient of fruits and birds, for every hostess provides "dainty" refreshments or elegant or both and if she fails in any respect THE COURIER can not conscientiously mention her party. Therefore, be it understood forever in the pages of THE COURIER that "dainty refreshments were served."

Miss Adele Randall went to New York on Thursday.

Miss Cochran, Miss Houtz and her friend Miss Baker of Portland, Oregon, and Miss Walkin will spend Monday at Crete.

Miss Ethelyn Hooper gave a high five party on Thursday evening for Miss Seba Case of Fairbault, Minnesota. Miss Barker won the royal prize, a cut glass vase, Mr. Fritz Westerman won the gentleman's royal, a silver box. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Houtz, Misses Barker, Burr, Leland, Rector, Houtz, Fiske, Butler, Moore, Griffith, Furnas, Welch, Watkins, Cochran, Slaughter and Gates. Messrs Hurlbut, Baldwin, Chapman, Welch, Smith, Yates, Green, Haggard, Louis Westerman, Fritz Westerman, Folsom, Walch, Lottridge, Riser, and Butler.
