The Woman's club held its regular meeting on Monday afternoon in the club rooms. The meeting was opened by the vice-president, Miss Elliot, who reported that the year book was delayed, but would be ready by the next meeting, also that the club would be four years old next month and hoped to celebrate its birthday appropriately. The members were delighted to learn that the president, Mrs. Scott, had returned from Chicago. Mrs. Stonebraker reported sixty new names to be added to the list of members, making in all, 333. It was decided to delay the printing of the year book till next Saturday in the hope of increasing this number to 400 by that time. The suggestion was also made that each lady bring to the "birthday party" either a small cup and saucer, or 10 cents, to be the property of the club, but no action was taken upon this.

The program was in charge of Mrs. S. B. Hohmann, leader of the Department of Current Events. It opened with a piano solo, Impromptu, op. 29, Chopin, by Miss Ethel Syford. Then Miss Elinor Williams sang two ballads, "The Bonnie Banks of Loch Lomond," and "Mollie's Eyes." Miss Williams has a sympathetic, sweet voice. She sings with simplicity and with very clear and charming enunciation. Miss Lottie Clarke was her accompanist.

Mrs. Lyman followed with a paper, "The Necrology of the Year."

Two delightful songs were given by Miss Elinor Williams, now visiting here, but formerly a resident of Lincoln.

Mrs. Sawyer gave a talk upon the Trans-Mississippi exposition in her usual energetic and interesting style. This closed the short program.

At the next meeting the program will be given by the Department of Civics. Mrs. Bushnell will read a paper and Mrs. W. J. Bryan will speak on "Why Should Women Study Civics?"

Mrs. Sawyer said, in brief, that the Trans-Mississippi exposition is different from all other expositions. Its specific purpose is to show the world the wealth and greatness of the greatest river in it. She gave lectures on cooking. Mrs. Rehlaender concluded with an appeal to the women to aid the children to help put
