the Washington; Mrs. F. D. Taggart was Mrs. Alexander Hamilton, and Mrs. Fernor J. Spencer posed as her great grand-aunt, Dolly Madison.

Mrs. James B. Grant divided the two sections of the programme, appearing as "Columbia," and the most artistic of the tableaux.

Mrs. A. McComb Recker read a paper on "The Fin de Siecle Woman." Mrs. Geo. Scott represented "The Grandmother of today," a neatly, fashionably dressed woman, bearing in her hand a copy of the Club Woman. Miss Isabel Hill reproduced a Gibson picture in colors as the "Golf Girl," in scarlet jacket, short skirt and Scotch hose.

The final picture, which was eagerly looked for, was Mrs. Platt, the "new woman," in a handsome gown of white satin. Her arm was upraised, and in her right hand was the well known gavel. The entertainment was brought to a conclusion amid storm of applause. It was so successful that it will probably be repeated at one of the theatres.

On Feb. 18, Crete Sorosis met with Mrs. Frank Johnson. There were thirteen members present answering to roll call with a quotation from Shakspeare.

The lesson for the day was the "England of Elizabeth," taught by Miss Merrill. Mrs. Noble read a very interesting paper on "Mary Stewart." Mrs. Merrill read a carefully prepared paper on "Our Ambassadors," which led to a general discussion of the duties of a foreign minister. We then had a short parliamentary drill, with Mrs. Mason in the chair, all taking part. The afternoon closed in the usual happy manner. Meeting adjourned to meet with Miss Merrill at the home of Mrs. Colvin.

The meeting of the Deborah Avery chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, with Mrs. Odell, on Friday afternoon, was well attended, thirty-four members being present.

The round table was omitted and the paper placed first on the program, owing to the amount of business to come before the club and the necessity for free discussion.

Mrs. S. E. Upton read a paper on the life and trials of Anne Hutchinson, which she prefaced by hoping that none of her auditors were present when she gave it at the Woman's club.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, who spoke especially of the unusually fine paper given at that time by Mrs. W. A. Rankins. A letter was received from the high school teachers thanking the chapter for the offer of a history medal. This has al-
