of its members, Mrs. Ryan, with the oriental coffee pot, which turns out beautiful strong amber fluid, fragrant and delicious at the economical rate of one teaspoonful of coffee to the cup. Miss Mary McCaig, a bright miss of fourteen, delighted the company with a piano solo. A vote of thanks was tendered the young ladies for the music, after which the club adjourned.

The child study department of the Woman's club met at the usual place on Saturday afternoon. There was an attendance of about fifty earnestly interested women. Mrs. Hartley spoke lucidly on the physical changes occurring in the adolescent period of youth. Miss Gallagher read a paper on the mental changes. This paper showed a breadth of comprehension as to possibilities for teachers in character development that it were well for all teachers to emulate. Mrs. Berge led ably in the discussion following which became very earnest. Mrs. Wheeler spoke and Mrs. Warferding led the discussion on the third phase of the subject, practical observations and directions.

Music like everything else is subject to the fluctuations of fashion. At present there is a remarkable revival of interest in the harp. According to the April Cosmopolitan, "There are over a hundred society ladies in New York who are skilful performers on the harp.

Ten years ago there were less than a dozen. Most of our distinguished professional harpists, also, are women. The harp's salvation is due largely to the beauty of its tone-color, which in the early part of the present century began to attract the great masters of instrumentation. Not only has it been introduced into all the great orchestras, but now the minor ones of our theatre have taken it up." The article further states that in the east the harp recital has become an event of as much musical interest as a piano recital. One of Chicago's best harpists, Miss Mildred Webber will be heard in Lincoln May 4, at the May Festival.

The household economics department of the Lincoln Woman's club held its regular meeting Monday with Mrs. John A. Ames. The department closes with fifty enrolled members, the majority of whom expect to continue their membership another year. Plans for enlarging the scope of the work were discussed. The members in regular attendance have strained the limits of private houses to the utmost, and a club room with a stove for practical demonstrations has become a necessity. The leader, Mrs. Milton Scott, whose enthusiasm and executive ability have made so great a success of this department, was unanimously re-elected. The assistant leader is Mrs. Henry Gund, and the former secretary, Mrs. Guy Brown was also re-elected. Mrs. Scott, in a bright speech, spoke at some length on future hopes and plans. The thought tends towards the establishment of a cooking school. A banquet will be given at the home of Mrs. Wallace some time next week which will formally close the meetings.

The Fortnightly club of this city has been studying Holland. The Quabbin club of Enfield, Mass., has been considering the same subject. Their calendar is ornamented by a quaint little Dutch girl in apron and kerchief, with her sturdy little shoes peeping out from under her long gown. At every meeting of the Quabbin club a pertinent poem is recited. In this way it has listened to Longfellow's "The Belfry of Bruges," Browning's "How they brought the good news from Ghent to Aix," Adelaide Proctor's "A tomb at Ghent," Holme's "The pilgrims' vision" and "Robinson of Leyden." For a meeting devoted partly to Delft and its potteries.
