When burning the midnight oil, should remember that undue application weakens the eyesight, and leads sometimes to serious defects of vision. Resting glasses are helpful and glasses that fit the eyesight when it is affected affords great relief. We will test the sight and fit it with glasses so that it will be preserved to a good old age.

Miss Fanny Chase gave a party at Burlington Beach on Wednesday evening for her guest, Miss Noyes. About thirty people spent the evening dancing and boating. They all went out together in a large carryall.

Mrs. Hargreaves gave a pretty party on Friday evening for her daughter, Miss Daisy. The house was decorated profusely with sweet peas. Cards were played during the first part of the evening, then light refreshments were served and the rest of the evening passed with dancing. The guests were Misses Nancy Lambertson, Jessie Outcalt, Ruth Macfarland; Messrs. Diedrich Lau, Arthur Raymond, Albert Fawell, Will Stein, Isaac Raymond, Alex Lau.

Another pleasant picnic was given last week at Lincoln park by Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Rehlender, Mr. and S. C. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Usher, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Stonebraker, Mr. and T. J. O'Connell, Miss Usher and Miss Jennie Usher of New York City, Miss Culler, Mesdames Eager and King, Messrs Will King, Clarence King, Harry Lee and T. R. Baker.

Mrs. Lambertson entertained some of her younger friends Saturday evening for her daughter, Misses Nancy and Margaret. The rooms were prettily adorned with sweet peas. Cards and dancing were enjoyed and later delicious refreshments were served. Her guests were

The young ladies of the Kappa Kappa Gamma fraternity have been busy almost all the summer making extensive preparations for their national convention which is to meet here from the twenty-third until the twenty-first of August. Their guests will stay at the Lincoln hotel, the university buildings will be at their disposal and the Phi Kappa Psi boys have given the use of their house. It is the first national convention that has ever been held here, and the energy and pluck of the young women was great to capture such a plum. It no doubt will be a help to the university and to the city and the citizens of Lincoln will be glad to give their young visitors a cordial welcome.

Miss Margaret Eckert, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Eckert of 1237 E street, was united in marriage to Dr. Myron O. Johnson of Crete on Wednesday evening, July twentieth. The Rev. F. A. Stuff stood behind an altar of flowers and pronounced the solemn words. The bride, who wore white mousseline de sois over cream silk, was attended by Miss Adelia Vogt and Miss Louise Claus. Miss Vogt wore a dainty white mull and Miss Claus a pretty organdie. M. C. W. Weckbach acted as groomsman.

Among the guests from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson of Dorchester, the parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Eckert, Mrs. Belsley and daughter and Mrs. Carpenter of Bellwood. After the ceremony there was an informal reception and the many guests looked at the beautiful presents. A dainty luncheon was served. Dr. and Mrs. Johnson left on the night train for the east for an extended trip. After their return they will go to their new home in Crete where the groom is well and most favorably known, having built up a large practice. Dr. and Mrs. Johnson have many friends who wish them happiness and prosperity.

Mrs. I. N. Baker gave a very pretty party on Friday afternoon for her little boy, Wilder. He was eight years old on that day and his little friends helped him to celebrate the event. The hostess served a dainty luncheon out on the lawn in the early evening and later took her little guests on a trolley ride. It was a pleasure in itself to watch the delight of the little folks. The guests were Mrs. Robert Hunter and Master Fred Hunter from Omaha, Thomas Usher, Adeline Usher, Thomas Ewing, Howard Brown, Bert Faulkner, Dorothy Miller, Katherine Beeson, Martha Quiggle, Herbert Baird, Donald Miller, Robert Phillips, Wecia, Eugene and Willie Stout, Thomas and Henry Woods and Dorothy and Wilder Baker.

Mrs. Frank Blisch gave a pretty Kensington on Saturday afternoon for Miss Emma McIntosh of Danville, Ill. Her guests were Mesdames
