Scene in "Sowing the Wind."

THE THEATRE

One of the strong situations in "Sowing the Wind" is the recognition by Brabazon of Rosamond as his daughter. After a long scene between them, during which she champions her unknown father and mankind, Rosamond exclaims, with an outburst, "Do not defame my mother; she was at least a woman; so am I. Let the women stand by the women and the men by the men. Let it be fought out to the bitter end." "Sex against sex," Brabazon answers, "sex against sex, so be it; it always was, it always will be. Sex against sex. Then I defend my own. How do you know that your father left her basely? How do you know that he abandoned you? Is it so certain that he was not betrayed? Sex against sex, but let the fight be fair. Let each bear its own cross." This wordy war, the climax of the third act in "Sowing the Wind," is said to be one of the strongest dramatic scenes ever given to the stage. "Sowing the Wind" will be the attraction at the Oliver theater next Wednesday evening, January 18, for one performance only. Prices 25c, 50c, 75c and $1. Seats on sale Wednesday morning at 9 sharp. Secure your seats early.

Williams, M. B. Snyder, Rose Stuart, Annie Yeamans, Dorothy Usner, Gertrude Roosevelt, Blanche Chapman, Rose Snyder and Jessie Conant. One of the important members of the organization is C. Jay Williams, a very clever character actor. He plays the part of a German count and gets into many complications by falling in love with the wrong woman. Prices 25c, 50c, 75c and $1. Seats now on sale at box office. Secure your seats early.

The third Philharmonic Orchestra concert takes place at the Oliver on Monday, January 23. The program will be a popular one, the orchestra numbers are of pleasing variety and the soloists are Mrs. E. Louis Baker, contralto, who will sing the Beethoven aria "Ah! Perfide" with orchestra, and Mr. Will B. Richardson will play the trombone solo, "O Thou Sublime Sweet Evening Star," Wagner. An evening well spent in musical enjoyment is promised to all who attend. Prices 25c, 50c, 75c and $1. Seats on sale Saturday, Jan. 21.

The humorous side of darkey life has been presented on the stage for a number of years, their quaint dancing and odd sayings affording much amusement, not to mention those plaintive, harmonious shouts which are features of all their entertainments. The scenes were invariably laid on a plantation or levee before the late civil war. The modern life of the negro presents many amusing episodes that have been used to good advantage by playwrights. An entire comedy presented on the legitimate stage by a negro cast has been expected, but not attempted until Messrs. Cole &

George H. Broadhurst's latest farcical effusion, "Why Smith Left Home," will be the attraction at the Oliver theater Monday evening, January 16, for one performance only. The management has supplied the production with a cast that will bear comparison with any seen in this city in similar work. It includes such clever players as Maclyn Arbuckle, Fred W. Peters, Harry Webster, C. Jay
