Madam Carreno, the great pianist, is an enthusiastic American in the "Yankee" sense and never allows a slighting remark made in her presence against the country that has been the scene of a major part of her career. Among other artists whom she has called to task for uncomplimentary remarks regarding us was Sarasate, the violinist. "You are not an American, you come from South America; you are one of us," he said in surprise after she had read him a lecture. Her reply was that she considered herself a Yankee, that the United States had been better than any other country to her, and besides that it was the greatest country in the world. Of American audiences Madame Carreno says: "They are the quickest in appreciation. As for myself I can only say that before I went abroad and made a name for myself the people of the United States loved me. They believed in me by their own standards and I love them." She will be at the Oliver one night only, February 18. You cannot afford to miss this, the greatest musical treat that has been offered to the Lincoln public. She is truly the greatest woman pianist in the world. Prices for this engagement are remarkably low considering the at-
