

High School Notes.

Misses Eola Ault and Cecil Loomis entertained at the home of Miss Ault, on Thursday evening. The time was most pleasantly passed progressive crokinole and other games, and the guests lingered, loath to leave such charming hostesses. Light refreshments were served. Those enjoying the hospitality of the young ladies were Misses Seybolt, Denman, Hall, Beatty, Loomis, Ault; Messrs. Pascal Eager, Finarty, Alexander, Burlingim, Warren.

The young gentlemen who have been entertained a number of times by the J. O. C.'s returned the compliment by giving the girls a sleigh ride on Monday evening.

Miss Charlotte Enslow entertained twelve young ladies last Saturday afternoon.

The girls of the Sophomore class gave a valentine party at the home of Miss Nellie Ludden on Wednesday evening. The young gentlemen of the class were the guests.

The Crokinole club will hold its next meeting at the home of Miss Emily Bowers.

The regular basket team has been organized and the line-up is as follows: Goal, Edith Burlingim; second center, Ethel Ames; center, Inca Everett; second center, Edna King; left guard, Dorothy Griggs; right guard, Olive State. The substitutes are Janet Therp, Maud Maddox and Ruth Bell. The team is a good one and many have visions of great victories.

The Advocate came out on Wednesday of this week.

Col. Kelly spoke in chapel Monday morning in commemoration of Lincoln's birthday. The secretary of Deane college spoke on Tuesday.

The Browning club elected the following officers at its last meeting: President, Rhoda McGraw; vice president, Carrie McVicker; secretary and treasurer, Nellie Miller; assistant secretary and treasurer, Louise Alexander; editor, Emily Bowers.

Miss Jean Thurston was a visitor at the high school on Thursday.

The high school was well represented at the Paderewski recital.

Even the "grave and reverend seniors" indulged in a valentine box Wednesday in place of their usual class meeting.

Have you heard about "The Revolving Wedge?" We have dodged every way possible to escape the persistency of the boys of the A. A., who are hailing men, women and children to buy tickets to the play of that name to be given on Friday evening, for their benefit.

Joubert—Op, on! Now is our chance.
Boer Private—Why?

Joubert—The English are arguing whether this war is taking place in the last year of the nineteenth century or the first of the twentieth and are in confusion. Change!—Town Topics.

THE OLIVER.

"What Happened to Jones," at the Oliver today, matinee and night. Mr. Clarke is the hymn book and card selling Jones, in Broadhurst's comedy. For some time the young comedian has been in poor health and his doctor advised him thus: "That he had not enough amusement." "Go to the theatre. A hearty laugh will do more good than a pill. Go see 'What Happened to Jones,' that will ease you a bit." Mr. Clark thought it good advice and after paying the specialist for his treatment hurried to his dressing room for the matinee. Mr. Clarke will be at the Oliver today, matinee and night.

"The Adventure of Lady Ursula," at the Oliver, Monday, February 19th. The story is swiftly told, and the situations are effective.
