Taylor, who has been studying at Yale for the past two years. Before returning they will visit New York, Boston and Washington.

Mrs. Stephenson gave a party Thursday afternoon for her son, Master Byron, who had the honor of counting his years to the number of four on that day. Games were played and then the small boys and girls were ushered into the dining room where the table was laden with such good things. Pink carnations were used to celebrate the event, and very pretty the graceful stemmed blossoms looked in their different vases. A belt of ferns hung over the table and smilax was much used. Miss Waugh played for the young folk and Mrs. Frank E. Perkins assisted Mrs. Stephenson in serving. Master Byron blew out the four candles on his cake. Mesdames Da Shael, Winnett, Meade, Miller, Bishop, Tefft, Stevens, Miss Darrow and Miss Foster came in to see the good time. Those present were: Misses Janet Miller, Marjorie Green, Olive Meads, Beulah Rowlands, Louise Rowlands, Margaret Mitchell, Esther Bennett, Ellinor Bennett, Anna Bishop, Ruth Stevens, Ethel Perkins, Ruth Hotaling, Verna Edgren, Bernice Henry, Ruth Munger and Helen Smith. Masters Harry Perkins, Dwight Smith, Fred Fielding, John Tefft, Turner Tefft, Clifford Morse, Willie Morse, Walter McArthur, Haydn Myer, Glen Hudson, Alfred Munger and Francis Da Shael.

Mrs. Da Shael of Baltimore, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Winnett.

The public is cordially invited.

On Saturday morning Mrs. Clarence H. Eubank was at home from ten to twelve to the Deborah Avery chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution and a few of their friends. The sixteenth of June is the anniversary of Bunker Hill and the chapter always honors the day in some way. Sarah Ladd and Grace Eubank in attractive gowns of blue and white ushered the guests to the drawing room where Mrs. Eubank, Mrs. M. H. Everett regent, and Mrs. R. T. Van Brunt vice regent, received. Blue and white, the chapter colors, prevailed in the drawing room, the draperies being of the colors. Clematis the listening larkspur and ferns formed a fragrant and happy medley of bloom. The red, white and blue and flags transformed the dining room into a patriotic bower, while meteor roses and sweet peas looked on and nodded their gay approval. Mrs. J. C. Seacrest in a handsome gown with an effect of national colors, presided over the pretty table. She was assisted by Mrs. M. W. Folsom, Miss Margaret Henry, Miss Smith and Miss Ella Waugh. In the library Mrs. Stephen B. Pound and Mrs. A. J. Sawyer showed a number of Revolutionary relics. The veranda, screened and draped with the colonial blue and buff, had such a charmingly comfortable aspect, that the guests lingered and chatted, while they drank a refreshing punch served by Mrs. William C. Phillips. Mrs. Phillips was assisted by Miss Smith, Miss Morrison and Miss Gladys Henry. Mrs. Rudolph Reblaender, Mrs. J. C. Harpham and Mrs. John Finch assisted in the various rooms.
