SOCIETY

When the lawns and golf grounds dissolve in unwonted rivers, even the in-defatigably social grasshopper is subdued. Luncheons and dinners there must be, but necessities, not frivolities are the order of the shortening July days. The news that comes from cliff and pebbly beach of Lincoln wanderers, has awakened this week in those left behind only the feeling that California weather, like other things, comes round to those who wait.

A letter from Mrs. Joseph A. Sargent, of Havana, Cuba, describes the reception given in El Vedado suburb by Mrs.
Leland, wife of the Methodist missionary in Havana, to Mr. and Mrs. Sargent shortly after their marriage in Cuba.
Both bride and groom are well known University of Nebraska students, whose friends will be glad to hear of the royal welcome that has been given them.
About forty American residents attended the reception, most of them being government officials with their wives.
There were, however, several native Cubans, who looked their congratulations, being unable to pronounce the President's English. The rooms of Mr. and Mrs. Leland, which are chiefly windows, reaching to tiled floors, were heavy with the fragrance of Cuban roses which fill the Vedado patio of the missionary's home. Among many other greetings that have come to the young engineer and his bride, was a message from Mr. Sargent's corps of assistants in the Department of Surveys. The expression of good wishes was accompanied by a handsome silver tea and chocolate service. This tribute from his men is scarcely less valued by the Nebraska ex-volunteer than were the words of recognition that came from Governor-General Wood, commending Mr. Sargent's strenuous labors in the survey of fortifications recently finished.
Mr. Sargent is one of the men whose work is giving westerners a noble pride in the bone and sinew bred on the prairie.

On Tuesday at high noon occurred the marriage of Mr. W. E. Allen, assistant physical director at the Nebraska University, and Miss Grace M.
Wheeler, youngest daughter of Judge and Mrs. Robert Wheeler. The wedding service at the home of the bride's parents, 2545 Q street, was a very quiet one, only immediate relatives witnessing the ceremony. The Rev. Dr. Long officiated. Both bride and groom are University graduates, and enthusiastic students of athletics, Mr. Allen having directed work in Physical training in five colleges or academies, while Miss Wheeler's record as a member of the U. of N. Midget Basket Ball team is noteworthy. Mr. Allen was graduated in '95 from the Y. M. C. A. training school of Springfield, Massachusetts, where he remained as instructor in physical culture for one year after which he spent a second year in the same department at Lowell, Massachusetts. Graduating in the class of '98 from Earlham College, Richmond, Indiana, where for two years he had directed the work in athletic training, as coach for the Earlham team, he went in '99 to San Antonio, Texas, again acting as Y. M. C. A. Physical Director. The year of '99-1900 Mr.

Allen spent at the Nebraska State University, preparing for the Master's degree, and assisting Doctor Hastings in the work of the University gymnasium.
His record is one that promises well for the new work to which he has been elected at Spokane Falls. The bride is a most vivacious and popular member of the class of 1900. Mr. and Mrs.
Allen leave today for Long Beach, California, where the groom's father is in real estate business, renting many summer cottages to tourists at this season.
About the first of September, they will go to Spokane Falls, Washington, which will be their home, Mr. Allen having been elected instructor in science in the high school of that city.

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Harris of Chicago and once of Lincoln are enjoying a vacation on the Isles of Shoals off Portsmouth, New Hampshire. The other day Mr. Harris and Mr. Sam Parker of Chicago, formerly landlord of the Grand Pacific hotel, were fishing in a small boat, two and a half miles off the island. Suddenly they heard a spouting and a blowing, and, looking up, they saw a whale about 250 feet away. It was seventy-five feet long and so big that it could have given Jonah first-class accommodations and had enough room left for a hoard of lesser sinners. He rolled around on top of the water very gracefully and finally, after seeing the three men in the boat, disappeared. The skipper, Charley Robinson, said that whales were harmless unless attacked, when they became very dangerous, even to a much larger craft than the one Mr. Harris and his friends were in.

Miss Marie Raphael was given a farewell surprise on Friday evening by Mrs. Henry H. Barth. The Q. A. T. club, of which Miss Raphael is a mem-
