

heads and each was led by a colored boy in white duck suits.

Aldis and Neva Hibner drove a pony phaeton decorated in red and black poppies. The children were dressed in red and black and had a small black dog with a collar of red flowers between them.

Miss Estella Douglas and Miss Dode Benninghoff were in sea green with black hats and drove amidst pink roses. The single seated road wagon had a harp shaped design of roses on the dashboard, and deep pink scrolls on the wheels. A huge jeweled black butterfly extended its wings at the back of the seat. Smaller butterflies were scattered among the roses and rested on the parasol of pink petals lined with roses. The white horse had a white harness and was garlanded in flowers. Messrs. James Lawlor and Zeb Martin on bay horses rode in attendance.

Mrs. Arthur Betz and Miss Hathaway were in white and scarlet in a shell of chrysanthemums the ribs alternating in violet and white. It was drawn by a bay horse with white harness. The white parasol had violet decorations.

Mrs. C. F. Barras in white with yellow ribbons and Miss Eva Barras in yellow had a brilliant turnout covered with pumpkin blossoms in the natural orange and yellow shades. The single seated carriage had a square canopy top of the gay flowers and was drawn by a bay horse with orange colored harness and decorations.

Mrs. O. E. Houck and Mrs. Clinton King, in black, with black hats and long plumes, road wagon, in violet chrysanthemums, blending from light to dark purple, drawn by a bay horse.

Mrs. H. J. Winnett, Mrs. S. G. Dorr; Mrs. W. C. Phillips and Mrs. C. Noll of Pittsburg, Pa., in gorgeous two seated surrey covered with holly-hocks, shaded from white to deep ruby red. Tall stems of holly-hocks were at the back of the carriage. The handsome bay horses were decorated with red plumes. Two of the ladies were dressed in white and two in geranium red, with white parasols. Mrs. E. Lewis Baker and Miss Darleyn Woodward, in white duck shirts and scarlet jackets, outriders.

Miss Hoover and Miss Burr, in an exquisite trap of shaded pink roses with small French mirrors inserted at the sides of the trap. Green vines encircled the roses on the hubs of the wheels, and the undergearing was twined with green. The rear seat was a bank of gorgeous deep pink roses. Broad pink satin ribbons served as decorative lines, but the garlanded horse was led by a footman. The young ladies wore white dresses with pink ribbons and sashes, and pink Gainsborough hats, with sweeping white plumes. They scattered confetti from a flower basket hung before them in the trap. A white silk parasol lined with pink roses shaded their heads.

Little Lorana and Harold Mattice drove a goat cart of pink carnations, drawn by a large white Angora goat, adorned with pink harness and flowers. Both children were dressed in white, and the little girl carried a pink parasol covered with carnations.

Mrs. Maxey Cobb, accompanied by Mrs. D. B. Stewart, drove a pair of large dark bay horses in a single-seated carriage, decorated with chrysanthemums. An effect of elegance was given by the simplicity of design and the careful attention to detail.

Mrs. C. G. Mullen and Mrs. W. G. Morrison, in an English dog cart, decorated in red and black. Masses of red poppies with black centers covered the cart and formed a Maltese cross on the wheels. The black horses had white harness, and were led by a footman in white livery. The ladies wore red and white and carried a red parasol, decorated with black butterflies.

Mrs. Julius Ottens and Mrs. S. A. Hensley, in a beautiful carriage, decorated in white chrysanthemums with yellow centers and white taffeta ribbon; in white and carried a large white parasol.

Miss Ethelyn Bignell and Miss Agnes Casebeer had a brilliant orange and red pneumatic road wagon, decorated in Japanese design. The chrysanthmums were shaded from red through orange to white and pale green. The wheels resembled big variegated stars. The white horse was harnessed in white. The young ladies wore Japanese kimonos of white, bordered with yellow and green, and green sashes. They carried a beautiful yellow umbrella, lined with yellow, green and white flowers.

Mrs. Richard O'Neill, Mrs. George Vanderpool and little baby Richard O'Neill, in white, rode in a carriage the shade of American Beauties. The undergearing was covered with asparagus fern.

Miss Lillian Fitzgerald and little baby Ruth Fitzgerald, in an exquisite swan-shaped carriage of white chrysanthemums. The large white horse was led by two footmen in white livery. Miss Fitzgerald and the little girl were dressed in white, with pink hats, and pink ribbons decorated the harness and carriage.

Mrs. Lela Jones, Mrs. H. Bradden and baby Forest Bradden occupied a buggy trimmed in pink and white chrysanthemums. A big pink bell hung over their heads. The white horse was decorated with pink flowers and ribbons.

Mrs. C. E. Finch was accompanied by Mrs. F. M. Brigham in a phaeton of white roses. The bay horse had white harness.

Mrs. W. C. Smith and little Miss Dorothy Welch, both dressed in white, rode in a carriage of lavender and white chrysanthemums. The horse was decorated with violet and white.

Mrs. W. H. Hunter, turnout of red poppies drawn by a black horse.

Miss Kate Pierce and Miss Lena Sherdeman were in a single-seated carriage of yellow poppies with black centers. They carried a yellow parasol.

Three children, Mabel Johnson, Marguerite Lasure and Lettie Mellen, had a trap in lavender and white chrysanthemums.

Miss Maude Howard and Miss Lola Fowers, both dressed in white, in the only blue carriage in the parade. Their flowers were chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Glenn Odell, a single seated carriage decorated in red and white poppies.

Mrs. G. P. Masterman and little Lemona Masterman, in a road wagon massed with roses of the unusual combination of yellow, pink and white.

Miss Noble and Miss Peterson, a single seated carriage done in red and white carnations.

Mrs. M. H. Spere was dressed as an orange flower tiger lily and her conveyance was covered with lilies of the tone of her gown. The black horses in yellow harness. The flowers were exceeding natural in appearance and were noticeable from the brilliant coloring.

Katherine Newbranch, aged three, accompanied by Lillian Hargreaves, aged six, drove in a donkey cart trimmed in lavender flowers. Both children were dressed in white. Bruce Johnson and George Hargreaves led the goat.

Miss Nellie Wilkinson and Miss Lydia League, one dressed in white and the other in pale blue, had a lilac trimmed trap. The flowers were not massed, but hung in natural appearing clusters. The boy who led the horse wore red roses.

Misses Mabel and Daisy Pallin, in the only morning glory decoration in the parade. Vines of the pink and blue flowers trailed over the carriage or were effectively massed. The young ladies wore white dresses and white hats

MR. JEAN ULRICH—In charge of our ladies' tailoring department, has completed a number of swell gowns lately, and every one is a masterpiece—perfect in fit, finish and in every other detail, possessing that ultra-fashionable air obtained only from high class tailors—that tone of elegance possible only to the best artists.

The Tailoring Department is equipped to handle all kinds of garments and Mr. Ulrich's personal care and attention is given to every order. Jackets, Capes, Fur Garments, Tailor Suits, Evening Gowns, Wedding Trousseau, etc., etc., given the greatest consideration.

---

It's Ready . . . .

The New Illustrated Catalogue is ready now—send in your name and address and we'll send you a copy. It's free to out of town people.

---

A. Herpolsheimer Co

LINCOLN, NEBR.

RUDGE & GUENZEL CO.
1118-1128 N Street.
HIGH - CLASS FURNITURE

Our stock is replete with the new ideas of in Colonial, English and French Reproductions, Furniture that carries with it an individuality that brings distinction to the home; that will beautify, and will endear itself with time.

We have the only complete stock of Oriental and domestic Rugs, Carpets and Draperies, Rich Cut Glass, reliable hardware. The prices—a comparison is all we ask.

Almost three acres of floor space. You will be interested. You won't be asked to buy. You will be made welcome.

A dainty parlor table of French design: San Domingo Mahogany, with cross band effect in the top, hand rubbed and polished. A rare design and of superior workmanship.
PRICE, $12.00.
We pay the freight.

trimmed with morning glories.

Mrs. P. C. Wilson, alone in a carriage riage of yellow and white chrysanthemums.

Mrs. H. M. Pronger and Mrs. Jennings, in chrysanthemums of orange color, shaded to pale yellow.

Mrs. B. H. Miller, Mrs. H. Deyo, Miss Jude Deyo and Miss Marguerite Burke, in lavender and white chrysanthemums, drawn by two white horses.

Misses Edna and Maude Harpham, a pretty carriage in yellow and white chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Arthur Young, pink chrysanthemums. She wore white.

Miss Lowrie and Miss Geneva Erisman, in an effective carriage of pink hollyhocks with black centers. The horse was decorated with pink.

Mr. W. H. McShane was accompanied in a two-seated trap by Miss Steinmetz, Miss Gilmour and Miss Hallett. The decorations were yellow roses. The trap was drawn by two black horses.

Mrs. Rigby, a phaeton of deep red poppies. The decorations on the horse were also red.

The Matinee Musicale season of 1900-1901 opened auspiciously on Monday with a reception and musicale tendered by the president, Mrs. E. Lewis Baker, to the club. The reception was given at Walsh hall, where all club meetings will be held this year. The ladies were received at the door and seated for the program by Mrs. A. R.