

THEATRICALS.

THE FUNKE.

Al W. Martin's beautiful production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," at the Funke Opera House on Friday and Saturday, October 26th and 27th, and matinee today at 2 o'clock. Mr. Martin has spared no expense in providing the best scenery. The settings are taken from actual scenes in the far south and are marvels of beauty. St. Clair's Louisiana home is the typical plantation house and the surrounding grounds with its Magnolia trees, Legree's Red River plantation with the fields of cotton in full bloom are among the prominent scenes. A large troupe of colored performers, donkeys, oxen and horses is carried. The cast is in the hands of reputable dramatic artists and nothing has been overlooked to make this the best production of "Uncle Tom."

Matinee prices 10 and 25 cents. Evening prices 15, 25, 35 and 50 cents. Seats now on sale.

"The Grace Hayward Company" which will be at the Funke Opera House all next week, commencing on Monday, October 9th, with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday, is under the management of Mr. Dick Ferris, who is quite well known to Lincoln theatre-goers. The company is composed of twenty-five people. The vaudeville contingent carries entertaining specialties for between acts. The repertoire includes several plays that have never before been presented at popular prices.

Each play will receive a complete stage investiture of scenery and costumes and nothing will be left undone to make the engagement a big success. On Monday evening Edwin Milton Royl's great play, "Friends" will be put on, with usual first night inducements offered to the ladies of Lincoln.

Prices during this engagement only 10, 20, 30 and 50 cents. Seats now on sale.

THE OLIVER.

With a phenomenal record of over 3,000 performances in America, England and Australia, "The Belle of New York" will be at the Oliver Theatre one night only, on Monday, October 29th. Miss Beulah Dodge is in the cast. Miss Dodge is a success as the pretty salvation lass, the part made famous by Edna May. Miss Mae Sailor plays the French woman, Fifi. Joseph Kane, the "Polite Lunatic." E. J. Connelly as "Elder Bronson." James Darling, Arthur Deagon, George Tollman, E. S. Tarr, Erminie Earle, Louise Willard, Bertha Northern, La Belle Dasse, Flo Perry and Grace Rutledge are among the old members of the cast.

Prices 25, 50 and 75 cents, and $1.00 and $1.50. Seats now on sale at box office. Secure your seats early.

A considerable portion of the piece belongs to real comedy. It is decidedly a bright piece of writing, not the less humorous and hearty, for being keenly satirical at times.

At the Oliver Theatre, Thursday evening, November 1st.

LEGAL NOTICES

Charles H. Hoyt's "A Midnight Bell" is unquestionably the best of Hoyt's comedies. It is a comedy, farcial in its nature, but it has a plot of sufficient strenght to carry the interest from the beginnning to the end of the play. "A Midnight Bell" is quite as amusing as
