SOCIETY

It is not enough to go through the world merely greeting people and recognizing their existence simply because we cannot well avoid doing so. It is a duty that we owe to our fellow-associates to know also something of the art of being cordial. And truly, "if ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them."

A few rare natures are supplied with the natural instinct of cordiality; others are blessed with more than the average degree of tact, which is a very good substitute. Others never recognize the necessity for cordiality,—and again others realize early in life that something is wrong in their dispositions, and are not satisfied until they have found the defect and remedied it. These are the wise ones. The ones lacking in wisdom spend all the days of their poor, narrow lives reviling the world and the people in it, and directing all their energies toward maintaining an appearance of offended dignity and misappreciated superiority.

The cordial man or woman always is willing to meet the world half way. That is what the world likes. It is a grim old world, and while it does not approve of half-way measures as a general rule, in this case the exception proves true.

There is something wonderfully attractive about the manner of a genuinely cordial woman, and the charm intensifies during continued acquaintance. Socially she is always a success, and if by chance she comes in contact with the business world, she finds almost a hearty greeting awaiting her there.

A certain reserve always is necessary, but this the dignified woman instinctively preserves without carrying it to the degree which savors of affectation. The impression is entertained by many otherwise sensible women that a cordial manner will be mistaken for a lack of proper dignity. The truly womanly woman may always be cordial without the fear of being misunderstood. Cordiality will never be mistaken for familiarity.

The home of Judge and Mrs. Jefferson H. Broady was the scene of a brilliant social gathering on Wednesday evening, the occasion being the marriage of Miss Anna Broady to Mr. David Avery Haggard of St. Paul, Minnesota.

The house was beautifully decorated with palms and ferns, and was illuminated with electric lights. The porch decorations of rugs, divans and gay Japanese lanterns were picturesque and effective.

At half after seven Miss Nellie Trigg played the wedding march from Lohengrin and the bridal party entered the middle parlor where the ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Stein. The bride, who wore a gown of white Persian muslin with a deep lace berth, was attended by her sister, Miss Grace Broady, and Miss Nellie Griggs, both of whom were dressed in white. Dr. L. B. Pillsbury of Trinidad, Colorado, was the groom's attendant.

A reception from eight to eleven o'clock was attended by a large number of guests who were received by Judge and Mrs. Broady, Mr. and Mrs. Haggard, and Mr. Haggard's parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Haggard. The dining room was a bower of pink and green, and was lighted with pink candles. Coffee and pink ice were served by Mrs. E. C. Folsom and Mrs. Harry Howell Harley, assisted by Misses Eleanor Raymond, Mabel Richards, Mabel Lindly, Margaret Winger, Laura Houtz and Emma Outcalt, all of whom wore pink or white gowns. Punch was served in the library by Miss Carson, whose assistants were Misses Joy Webster, Olivia Pound, Katherine Thomas and Ruth Bryan. Mesdames C. H. Gere, J. E. Hill, E. W. Thomas, F. M. Hall, W. A. Lindly, W. H. McCreery, A. F. Walsh, Gertrude Walsh, Miss Laura Haggard and Miss May Sabin of Beatrice introduced the guests and directed them to the refreshment rooms.

Mrs. Haggard is a member of the university class of '97, also a Kappa Kappa Gamma. Mr. Haggard was graduated from the law school in '93, and is a member of Phi Delta Theta. He practiced law in this city until '97, when he removed to St. Paul, Minnesota, where he is a member of the law firm of Haggard & Wakefield. Mr. and Mrs. Haggard will be at home in St. Paul after October first.

Miss Burr gave a porch party Wednesday morning in honor of Miss Oakley. The porch was transformed into an outdoor parlor by the use of rugs, cushions, hammocks and chairs, among which card tables were placed for the entertainment of the guests.

A cozy corner at one end of the porch had an effective drapery of American flags, and was made beautiful with a mass of American beauty roses.

A white linen traveling case made in compartments and finished with blue ribbon was given to Miss Oakley as a guest prize; another handsome prize, a lace-trimmed work-bag, was won by Miss Meyer. Refreshments were served by the hostess. The invited guests were Mesdames W. G. Morrison, Lewis Marshall, Ashton of Grand Island, McDaniels of Omaha, Thomas W. Griffith, W. Maxwell, Ode Rector, E. C. Merrill, K. H. Oakley, Elmer Henkle, Ross Curtice, Smyser of New York, Walter B. Hargreaves, W. M. Leonard, Edmiston, Fred Houtz and J. W. McDonald; Misses Oakley, Gahan, Herod, Nance, Hollowbush, Garten, Welch, Putnam, Meyer, Savage, Outcalt, Marshall, Hawley, Carson, Prentiss, Burnham and Hooper.

Mrs. W. B. Hargreaves gave an afternoon party and linen shower for Miss Oakley on Thursday afternoon. Twenty-five guests were present, and were entertained with a unique guessing game. Prizes were won by Miss Oakley and Miss Fay Marshall. The decorations were American beauty roses.

Mrs. F. W. Brown entertained at luncheon Friday in honor of Miss Oakley. The guests were Mrs. Oakley, Mrs. Lew Marshall, Mrs. Griffith, Miss Oakley, Miss Gahan, Miss Nance, Miss Ashton of Grand Island, and Miss Hitchcock of Sandusky, Ohio.

Mrs. C. E. Yates will entertain at cards Monday evening in honor of Miss Oakley, and Mrs. Will Maxwell will give a porch party on Tuesday, at which Miss Oakley will also be the guest of honor. On Sunday evening Mrs. J. W. McDonald will give a luncheon complimentary to Miss Oakley and Mr. Clark. On Wednesday the bridal party will be entertained at luncheon by Miss Oakley, and on Wednesday evening the same guests will be entertained at dinner at the Lincoln by Mr. Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Harrison will leave October first on a trip to Central
