SOCIETY

Mrs. Mary Fitzgerald and Mrs. Edward Fitzgerald gave a party last week in honor of Mrs. D. D. Muir of Rutland, Vermont. These early fall parties have the interest of all beginnings, of all renewals of relationships interrupted by vacations. Mrs. Muir has been spending the summer with her mother, Mrs. Wilson, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dorgan who have spent the season abroad. The seven tables around which the guests gathered were each set for a different game. In the hall there was a table full of big potatoes and small coffeespoons in which the players were expected to carry the tubers. The player carrying the largest number in the shortest time won a point. There was also a domino table, a doll dressing table where were little rolls of tissue paper tied with ribbons and furnished with thread, needles and scissors; a puzzle table, a euchre table, a paper flower table and a ball and pocket throwing table. Mrs. Frank King Clark was the most expert in these diverse games and Mr. Buckstaff carried home a prize of versatility. The guests were Messrs. and Mesdames Dorgan and John Dorgan, Oakley, Burnham, Ladd, W. C. Wilson, Leonard, Frank King Clark, Dayton, Buckstaff, George Woods, and Ross Curtice; Mrs. Frances Wilson, Mrs. Muir, Miss Harris, Mr. Ogden and Mr. Wilson Muir. After the games were played and the refreshments enjoyed, small glasses were passed to the guests and a health to Mr. and Mrs. Muir and to the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Clark, were proposed. Then Mr. Clark sang, his big, smooth voice filling the room. Then Mr. and Mrs. Clark sang exquisitely, with fine shading, "My Rosary." Finally, Mr. Clark led the company in "America."

Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Kappa Kappa Gamma was founded on the thirteenth of October, 1870, by fourteen students of Monmouth college, Monmouth, Illinois. The organization seems to have been modeled, not on the two women's fraternities already established, I. C. Sorosis (later Pi Beta Phi) and Kappa Alpha Theta, but rather on one of the oldest men's fraternities, of which the father of one of the founders was a member.

Unlike Alpha Phi, Delta Gamma and Gamma Phi Beta, each of whom existed for from five to nine years as a local organization merely, Kappa Kappa Gamma became a national fraternity almost immediately, by the establishment of a second chapter in 1871.

In the first decade of Kappa Kappa
