MRS. ASTOR DECLARES A NEW "600"

Belles who lead in Mrs. Astor's new "600."

The "Four Hundred," as a term used as a means of designating New York city's most exclusive social set, is now as dead as Ward McAllister, its famous founder. Mrs. John Jacob Astor, the presiding genius of New York society has created a new 600 and the "six hundred" will henceforth be the cognomen of the social aristocracy of Gotham. The above halftone shows the women selected by Mrs. Astor to head the new social set.
