One of the very pleasant Fourth of July picnics was that given on the beautifully shaded lawn at the home of Mrs. Martha Enslow by a company of young ladies. Flags and the national

CHARLES W. M. POYNTER.

"A new broom sweeps clean," is an old maxim having many appropriate applications in all the walks of life. Likewise it is true that a young man, fresh from college, after having taxed his highest and best efforts to excel, is, in these modern days, the one whose services are more sought after than the one who has not so prepared himself for life's duties and responsibilities. Why should it not be so when state, municipality and even the nation are bending their strongest efforts to

Charles W. M. Poynter, the subject of this sketch, is what might be termed a Nebraska boy. He was born in Illinois in 1875 and at the age of four years his parents removed to Boone county this state, where he laid his educational foundation by graduating from the high school at Albion at the head of his class. He early evinced a desire to study medicine, which culminated in his graduating with honors from medical college in 1901. In his graduation he won the medal for the best work in special surgery. He is now Dr. C. W. M. Poynter, having offices at 1222 O street, and resides with his father, ex-Governor W. A. Poynter, on South Twenty-seventh street.

Dr. Poynter comes from one of Nebraska's first families. He spent three years in preparatory work in the state university, and is a member of Alpha Theta Chi and Phi Rho Sigma fraternities.

colors were in evidence, and Japanese lanterns illumined the scene after the twilight fell. An ideal picnic supper was served. Those present were Mrs. O. H.
